12. All the findings must have been repeatedly and thoroughly verified by multiple independent research teams before being published in peer-reviewed journals.
13. These critical issues could have been far more systematically addressed had there been sufficient time and resources available for comprehensive investigation.
14. The entire process would have been more carefully monitored by the oversight committee if the proper protocols had been followed.

15. Every aspect of the research methodology has been consistently being questioned by numerous scholars across multiple disciplines for several years.
16. The data might have been continuously collected and meticulously analyzed throughout the entire duration of the longitudinal study.
17. All the recommendations should have been more seriously considered by all the committee members before any final decisions were made.
18. The evidence must have been being systematically gathered and carefully documented by the investigation team during the entire inquiry process.
19. These concerns could have been repeatedly mentioned in all the previous discussions without ever receiving any satisfactory resolution.
20. The project would never have been so successfully completed had it not been for the extraordinary dedication of the entire team.

1.5. 문장 21-30: 형용사구와 부사구 중심

21. The participants were completely unaware of all the serious consequences that might follow from such hastily made decisions without proper consideration.
22. All the researchers seemed absolutely confident that every single detail had been meticulously checked and thoroughly verified by independent reviewers.
23. The results were entirely different from anything that had been previously observed in any of the earlier comprehensive studies.
24. She worked significantly more efficiently and considerably more systematically than any of the previous researchers had ever done.
25. The committee members appeared thoroughly convinced of the absolute necessity for immediate and comprehensive reform throughout the entire organization.
26. Everyone was completely satisfied with all the outstanding results that had been achieved through months of intensive collaborative effort.
27. The analysis was conducted far more meticulously and vastly more comprehensively than could have been reasonably expected under the circumstances.
28. All participants remained fully prepared for whatever unexpected challenges might arise during the complex implementation phase.
29. The team worked extraordinarily much more systematically and significantly more carefully than had been originally planned.
30. The researchers were entirely responsible for all the mistakes that had been made throughout the entire duration of the project.

1.6. 문장 31-40: 전치사구 중심

31. In accordance with all the regulations specified in the comprehensive contract, every participant must submit detailed reports on a monthly basis.
32. With regard to all the concerns that had been raised during the previous meetings, the committee will provide detailed responses in due course.

33. As a result of the extensive investigation conducted by independent experts over several months, numerous significant problems were identified.

34. In spite of all the difficulties encountered throughout the implementation phase, the team successfully completed the project on schedule.

35. For the purpose of achieving the most optimal results possible under the given circumstances, additional resources were allocated to the project.

36. In the middle of all the chaos and confusion that surrounded the controversial decision, several key officials quietly resigned from their positions.

37. On behalf of all the committee members who had worked tirelessly throughout the year, the chairman expressed gratitude to the supporters.

38. In addition to every single requirement that had been clearly specified in the original contract, several additional conditions were imposed.

39. By means of the most advanced technology available at that time, the researchers were able to achieve unprecedented results.

40. Throughout the entire process of careful examination and thorough review, no significant errors or inconsistencies were discovered by the auditors.

1.7. 문장 41-50: 등위접속사 중심

41. The extremely talented researchers and the highly experienced senior professors have been collaborating on this groundbreaking project for years.

42. All the comprehensive reports that had been submitted and every single detailed analysis that had been conducted were thoroughly reviewed.

43. The proposal was both incredibly ambitious and extraordinarily complex, yet it was completed on time and within budget.

44. She worked quickly but carefully, efficiently yet thoroughly, and systematically but creatively throughout the entire project.

45. Either all the participants must submit their reports by Friday, or the entire project will be significantly delayed.

46. Neither the distinguished professors nor the experienced researchers could solve the extremely complicated mathematical problem.

47. The findings were not only surprising but also profoundly significant, and they challenged many long-held assumptions.

48. The team worked hard, the results were impressive, and the sponsors were extremely satisfied with the outcome.

49. Both the theoretical framework and the practical methodology were thoroughly examined and carefully validated by independent experts.

50. The research was conducted systematically and analyzed carefully, but the conclusions remained controversial and heavily debated.

1.8. 문장 51-60: 종속접속사 중심

51. Although the most qualified international experts had been consistently warning about the catastrophic consequences, the government proceeded with the plan.

52. When all the comprehensive reports had been thoroughly reviewed by multiple independent committees, several significant problems were identified.

53. Because every single detail had been meticulously examined by experienced reviewers, the findings were considered highly reliable.

54. While the internationally recognized scientists were conducting their groundbreaking research, numerous unexpected challenges emerged.

55. If all the extremely complicated requirements specified in the original contract are completely fulfilled, the project will be approved.

56. After the entire team had worked tirelessly for months on the comprehensive analysis, the results finally became available.

57. Since the proposal had been repeatedly examined by numerous expert committees, everyone expected quick approval.

58. Unless all the relevant stakeholders are properly consulted and their concerns are adequately addressed, the project cannot proceed.

59. Before any final decisions could be made by the administrative committee, all the available evidence needed to be carefully reviewed.

60. As soon as the comprehensive investigation conducted by independent experts was completed, the findings were immediately published.

1.9. 문장 61-70: 복합 구조 (등위 + 종속)

61. When the researchers discovered the significant errors and the review committee confirmed the findings, the entire project was immediately suspended.

62. Although both the theoretical analysis and the empirical evidence supported the hypothesis, many scholars remained skeptical.

63. Because the data had been carefully collected and thoroughly analyzed, and because all the methods had been properly validated, the conclusions were accepted.

64. While some participants were completely satisfied with the results, others were thoroughly disappointed, yet everyone agreed to continue.

65. If the proposal is approved by the committee and if sufficient funding becomes available, the project will begin next year.

66. After all the reports had been submitted and all the analyses had been completed, but before any decisions were made, new evidence emerged.

67. Since both the senior researchers and the junior assistants had worked extremely hard, and since the results exceeded all expectations, everyone celebrated.

68. When either the funding runs out or the deadline approaches, whichever comes first, the project must be completed.

69. Although neither the preliminary findings nor the final results were particularly encouraging, the research team remained optimistic.

70. Unless both the administrative requirements are met and the technical standards are satisfied, the application will be rejected.

1.10. 문장 71-80: 관계절 포함 초복잡 구조

71. The comprehensive report that the internationally recognized experts who had been working on the project for years finally submitted was immediately reviewed.

72. All the students who had been attending the lectures that the distinguished professor had been giving throughout the semester received excellent grades.

73. The proposal that the committee members who had expertise in the field carefully examined was unanimously approved.

74. Every single recommendation that the consultants who were hired specifically for this purpose made was thoroughly implemented.

75. The evidence that the investigators who had been trained by the most experienced professionals discovered completely changed the case.

76. None of the solutions that the engineers who worked on the problem proposed were ultimately implemented.

77. All the concerns that the stakeholders who attended the meeting raised were carefully documented and systematically addressed.

78. The methodology that the researchers who published the groundbreaking paper developed has been widely adopted.

79. Each decision that the officials who were responsible for the program made was heavily scrutinized by independent observers.

80. The findings that the scientists who conducted the extensive investigation reported challenged conventional wisdom.

1.11. 문장 81-90: 다중 종속절 구조

81. Although the team worked hard, because the deadline was tight, and since the resources were limited, the project faced numerous challenges.

82. When the data was collected, after it had been analyzed, and before the results were published, several errors were discovered.

83. If the proposal is approved, when sufficient funding becomes available, and after all stakeholders are consulted, implementation will begin.

84. Because the evidence was compelling, although some experts remained skeptical, and while further research was needed, the findings were published.

85. While some researchers supported the theory, because the evidence was limited, and unless additional data could be gathered, conclusions remained tentative.

86. After the investigation was completed, when all the evidence had been reviewed, but before any announcements were made, the situation changed.

87. Since the methodology was sound, although the sample size was small, and when the results were replicated, the conclusions were strengthened.

88. Unless the problems are resolved, if the deadline cannot be extended, and when the budget is exhausted, the project will fail.

89. Although initial results were promising, because subsequent tests failed, and while the team remained optimistic, funding was withdrawn.

90. When the review was conducted, after all documents were examined, and since no irregularities were found, approval was granted.

1.12. 문장 91-100: 최고 난이도 종합 구조

91. Although all the most distinguished internationally recognized professors who had been teaching at the prestigious university for over three decades consistently warned that the proposed changes would have catastrophic consequences, and despite the fact that numerous comprehensive studies conducted by independent research teams clearly demonstrated the fundamental flaws in the administrative plan, the government officials who were responsible for making the final decision hastily approved the controversial proposal without adequate consultation with the relevant stakeholders.

92. When the extremely talented young researchers who had been working tirelessly on the groundbreaking project for several years finally discovered the significant errors that had been systematically overlooked by all the previous investigators, and after they had carefully documented every single problematic aspect and thoroughly verified all their findings through multiple independent analyses, the entire scientific community was shocked by the revelations.

93. Because every single one of the comprehensive reports that had been meticulously prepared by the expert consultants clearly indicated that the proposed methodology was fundamentally flawed, and since all the preliminary tests that had been conducted under carefully controlled conditions consistently failed to produce the expected results, the review committee that was responsible for evaluating the project unanimously recommended that it should be immediately suspended.

94. While some of the most experienced senior researchers who had dedicated their entire careers to studying this particular phenomenon remained convinced that the traditional theoretical framework was still valid, others who had been exposed to the latest developments in the field argued persuasively that a completely new approach was urgently needed, and this profound disagreement led to increasingly heated debates at professional conferences.

95. If all the extremely complicated technical requirements that have been specified in the detailed contract are completely and properly fulfilled within the designated timeframe, and if the independent quality assurance team that will be conducting the comprehensive evaluation confirms that every aspect of the implementation meets the highest professional standards, then the project sponsors who have been monitoring the progress will release the final payment.

96. Since both the theoretical analysis that had been conducted by the leading experts in the field and the empirical evidence that had been gathered through years of careful observation strongly supported the controversial hypothesis, yet because several highly respected scholars who specialized in related areas raised serious methodological concerns that could not be easily dismissed, the academic community remained deeply divided on the issue.

97. After the extensive investigation that had been initiated by the regulatory authorities was finally completed, and when all the evidence that had been painstakingly collected by the experienced investigators was thoroughly examined by independent legal experts, but before any official announcements could be made to the public, several key witnesses who had provided crucial testimony suddenly changed their statements.

98. Unless the fundamental problems that have been repeatedly identified by numerous independent auditors are completely resolved through comprehensive systematic reforms, and unless all the relevant stakeholders who have legitimate concerns about the current situation are properly consulted and their objections are adequately addressed, the proposed plan that the administrative committee has been developing cannot possibly succeed.

99. Although neither the preliminary findings that were reported by the research team nor the final results that were published in the prestigious peer-reviewed journal were particularly encouraging to those who had hoped for more definitive conclusions, and even though the methodology that had been employed throughout the study was questioned by several prominent critics, the investigation nevertheless provided valuable insights that significantly advanced understanding of this complex phenomenon.

100. When either the available funding that has been allocated for this ambitious project is completely exhausted or the final deadline that was established by the sponsoring organization is reached, whichever of these two critical milestones occurs first, all the research activities that are currently being conducted by the international team of scientists must be immediately concluded, and comprehensive final reports that document every aspect of the work must be submitted to the relevant authorities for thorough evaluation.
