Students spend countless hours trying to get facts into their heads, thinking that that's where all the remembering occurs. But our muscles really have better memories than our heads. Why have visual artists looked so often and so insistently at dance? In its largest sense, dance has interested visual artists as part of the moving surface of the world, and it is clear that the dancer's will to move has been, in many cases, 1. urgent movement than the visual artist's will less to record no that. The visual artist has often been 2.f_____ the p_____ of trying to fix — to make permanent — an image of the dance, while at the same time sustaining the fiction of motion.
